THE CITY CHARITABLE APPROPRIATIONS

By Rabbi Ferdinand M. Isserman

At a meeting of the Board of Control held last week, the Board voted to contribute $45,000 to the Federation for Community Service, and $5,000 to the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies. Nothing was voted to the Catholic Charities as these voluntarily withdrew their request for an appropriation, they having greatly exceeded their quota. City Treasurer Ross' recommendation was that appropriations be made on the basis of the tax assessment, but this recommendation was not accepted. Controller Gibbons pointed out that it is impossible equitably to decide the percentage of assessment of every group, as there are many concerns like the C.P.R., the banks and the theatres which can be classed neither as Jewish, Catholic nor Protestant institutions. In addition to that charitable funds should be appropriated on the basis of need. The institutions which need funds the most should be favoured in any municipal appropriation. That the Catholic group recognized this principle is evinced by their withdrawal of their request. On the basis of assessment the Catholic charities were entitled to an appropriation. On the basis of need, they were not. Their voluntary withdrawal of their request is a splendid example of community fellowship and co-operation, which is greatly appreciated. We are glad that Mr. Ross' recommendation did not become a precedent.

The city's contribution to the philanthropies is of much significance. It implies a tacit realization that the social problems of a community should be faced by the community as a whole, and that a municipality as such should contribute to charitable organizations. The city's regular contribution to hospitals, its grants to relief agencies and now its appropriation to federations, are, we feel, the beginning of the assumption on the part of the city, as such, of the responsibility for financing all philanthropic work. Charities can be more efficiently administrated through sectarian agencies, but the burden of their cost should be borne by the community and no one should be permitted to evade his share of the burden, even as no one is permitted to evade his share of the maintenance of the public school. A community charity tax would solve the problem.

FROM PEDDLER TO STATE TREASURER

In the early eighties a poor immigrant Russian Jew landed in Baltimore with ten dollars in his pocket. To-day that immigrant is Treasurer of the State of Wisconsin, has held that post, an elective office, for several terms, and may be a gubernatorial candidate in the next election. The Honourable Solomon A. Levitan commenced his career on this continent as a peddler—sold wares to the farmers of Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia, settled in Wisconsin, became the owner of a department store, a bank director, a bank president, and finally the State Treasurer. He is known for his integrity and sincerity as well as for his sound business judgment. In every election in which he has been a candidate, he received the largest vote of the entire ticket. He resides now in Madison, Wisconsin.

FIFTY YEARS OF HATIKVAH

Attention has recently been called to the fact that this year marks the fiftieth anniversary of the composition of the song "Hatikvah" now regarded as the Jewish national anthem. Few people who sing the Hatikvah give any thought to the strange man, Naftali Herz Imber, who wrote the song. Imber was a Jewish Bohemian of a true vagabond temperament. The Hatikvah was the only poem of any consequence that he ever wrote. But having written a song that was accepted as the lyrical expression of a people's yearning for redemption, he was not without claim to national recognition. Imber's lot, however, was one of obscurity even during his lifetime. He died virtually of neglect and starvation.

The motif of the Hatikvah was one of uncertain hope. Its cadences intone the mood of despair which prevailed at the time of the composition, and the note of optimism which it purports to raise is hypothetical and halting.

What is needed now in Zionism is a ringing declaration of determination—grim, sullen, unyielding—to face the crushing obstacles and to conquer.

TALK ABOUT COMPANIONATE MARRIAGE

The happily married matrons and their sparse-haired husbands who keep in trim by moving with all modern movements, will now forget their "Brown-bred" babies for a while and take to discussing companionate marriage.

And any rabbi or clergyman who will approve of the new marriage-on-approval scheme, will lay himself open to the suspicion of looking for two fees for marrying the same couples twice.

THE O. J. U. P. CONFERENCE

Do you know the designation of the most recent conference held in New York by a group of 300 representatives of ten eastern states?

The conference was entitled "The Conference of Orthodox Jews for the Upbuilding of Palestine." Its object was to ratify the "deal" made by the American Mizrachi Organization with the United Palestine Appeal whereby the former was to abandon the project of a separate campaign in consideration of a very handsome appropriation.

A bargain made by leaders of an organization has to be ratified by the membership at large. In this case there happens to be no Mizrachi organization, and there are no known members anywhere in America to ratify the very shrewd arrangement made by the followerless leaders. Hence the conference with the new name.

One of the resolutions adopted at this conference was to the effect that every Orthodox congregation be listed as a branch of the Mizrachi organization, and that every seat-holder be enrolled as a member of the Mizrachi organization. This resolution is remarkable for its ingenuity as well as for its simplicity. It solves with one stroke of the pen the entire problem of Mizrachi. By this ruse it would, without any effort even achieve the result of trapping the present writer into its fold.

Federation Collects $251,500

Federation of Jewish Philanthropies' campaign for $250,000, Sunday, December 4, realized subscriptions of $251,500 at a final dinner given to about 500 workers by the executive committee of the campaign in the Mount Royal Hotel. A capital contribution of $25,000 was also given to Federation by Elijah Silverstone on behalf of his brother, Issac, his sisters, Florrie and Annie, and himself, to perpetuate the name of their mother, Edith Ethel Silverstone.

This is the first endowment of Jewish charity in Montreal. As trustees of this fund, Mr. Silverstone appointed Al Lesser, president of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies; Lyon Cohen, president of the Shaar Hashomayim Congregation, and Michael Hirsch, president of the Montefiore Club, the trusteeship to pass into the hands of the men who succeed to these positions. The only conditions that Mr. Silverstone attaches to his bequest are that memorial tablets to his mother be placed in the Montreal Hebrew Orphans' Home, the Montreal Hebrew Old People's and Sheltering Home, and the Mount Sinai Sanitarium near Ste. Agathe, and that the traditional Hebrew prayers for the dead be said there each year on the anniversary of her death.

The meeting, which did not end till after midnight, was given added interest in that $16,000 was subscribed from the floor to bring the receipts up to and over the objective of a quarter of a million dollars. After Ernest Vaz, comptroller of Federation, announced that the receipts of the campaign amounted to $234,712.77, A. H. Jassby, vice-president of the executive committee, rose to his feet and made a plea on behalf of the fourteen constituent societies that go to make up the Jewish Federation.

His plea for funds was supplemented by those of Michael Morris, chairman; Michael Hirsch, I. Friedman, Lyon Cohen and Al Lesser, and by moving pictures of the work done by the various societies under the jurisdiction of Federation. Many of the contributions made to cover the deficit were given in memory of parents or in honour of grand children. One hundred dollars was given by J. Kellert in the name of the youngest subscriber, his week-old grand-daughter, Sadie Block. A. H. Jassby augmented his already generous subscription by $1,000. J. Kauffman and Marco Leon contributed $600; Michael Hirsch, $500; Al Lesser, $100; Mrs. Arthur Simon, $100; in the name of Ezekiel and Minnie Bronfman, $1,000 was given by their family, which brought the Bronfman family contribution up to $9,000; H. M. Rigstein, $250; Samuel Hart, for his grand children, $200; Samuel Wenev, $500. Rubin Brothers increased their subscription from $250 to $500; Mrs. J. Levinson gave $100 for her grand children; Mr. and Mrs. Lyon Cohen and Mr. and Mrs. A. Z. Cohen subscribed $250 in the name of their parents Mr. and Mrs. Lazarus Cohen. Among other contributors to the deficit fund were Martin Simon, $250; Sol Kellert $500; A. Somerer, $600 in the name of his mother and brother, Benjamin; Morris Ginsberg, $250; Mrs. Jacob Horowitz, $100; Harry Rother, $200; Carling's Beer, $250; Louis L. Cohen, $250; Samuel Hart, $100; Louis Wolf, $250; Laz Silver, $100. Many other contributions ranging from ten to fifty dollars were also subscribed from the floor. Michael Morris, on behalf of the campaign executive committee whose guests all present were, welcomed those attending the dinner. Miss May Lightstone sang two songs, accompanied by Miss Sophie Myers. S. Berland played the piano, and Nathan Raginsky, the violin.

Rabbi Isserman's Editorials

Though Levitan prospered and won the recognition of his fellow-citizens, he never attempted to conceal his Judaism as others in his circumstances have done. For years on the High Holydays he has led the services in his synagogue. The influence of his faith is evidenced in all his activities. He won recognition because of his Judaism. My grandfather was one of his teachers and helped mould his ideas. I do, therefore, take special pride in his success. Of my grandfather, Sol Levitan writes: "I owe a great deal of the success of my career to your grandfather as he was my teacher just at an age when I needed most his good teaching and advice."

MAZEL TOV, MONTREAL JEWRY!

A week ago Montreal Jewry set out to raise $250,000 for the constituent societies of Jewish Federation. There was an element of doubt in the minds of many. Could such a huge sum be realized? But within the brief period of one week the seemingly impossible goal was reached. Montreal Jewry is indeed deserving of praise. We are happy to know that our Jews in Montreal do have communal and social responsibility. We rejoice that the little Jewish orphan will have a foster home, there to laugh and merrily to romp with other little ones and have in its heart the happiness that is the right of childhood. We are also glad that the aged can have an abode, there to live their last years in happy companionship and recount their reminiscences of days that are gone. We are proud, above all, that Montreal Jewry is possessed of the proudest tradition of our people. "Zedakka" forms a great part of that unique tradition. Zedakka has run through every page of the history of the Jew and has entered into the blood of every Jewish child. Long before the Jews had entered Palestine, Moses transmitted to them the divine command: "When ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not wholly reap the corner of thy field, neither shalt thou gather th gleaning of the harvest. And thou shall not glean thy vineyard, neither shalt thou gather the fallen fruit of thy vineyard; thou shalt leave them for the poor and the stranger." In Palestine and in the Diaspora our fathers gave. Though tortured and persecuted by a hostile world, the Jew, through the middle ages and in the Ghetto—gave. And "this thing of giving" is still part of us. Let some of our shallow ones and our stunted rich selfishly hoard their wealth—what care we? For us, conscious Jews, the great stream of Jewish life which has gone on unbroken for so many thousands of years, will still go on, handing down from generation to generation the great teachings of our sires—peace, justice and "zedakka." To those who had not escaped Federation, to those who worked and battled on behalf of Federation, to those who gave to Federation—we say, "Mazel tov." All honour to those who made possible this "affair of honour"!

A SUGGESTION

Now that the Federation campaign is over, we venture to offer a suggestion to the leaders of Montreal Jewry. It seems to us that the Jewish educational system ought to be examined. A survey ought to be made of the "Talmud Torahs," the "shules," the "chedorim" and the "yeshoboth." Might it not be possible, after a thorough analysis of the situation, to create a Bureau of Jewish Education? It seems to us that hundreds of Jewish children in our community are deprived and denied a proper Jewish training. The future of Israel rests with our youth. What a splendid opportunity for the Bnai Brith and the Council of Jewish Women in Montreal! Both of these "neutral" international Jewish organizations ought to sponsor a survey of the entire Jewish community of Montreal with special reference to the educational problem. A word to the wise is sufficient.

MUSCULAR JUDAISM

Saul Weislow, a fraternity brother of ours, was elected captain of the University of Chicago football team. According to the reports, Weislow is the first Jew to be so honoured at the University of Chicago. Splendid! We Jews are to-day glorying in the muscular part of life. In the Ghetto we, perhaps due to oppression, over-emphasized the mental and somewhat neglected the physical. To-day, with a Benny Friedman, of Michigan, and the "Hakoach" of Palestine, we are rapidly developing a muscular Judaism.

Under the heading "Testimonials" there appeared in a recent number of The Nation five letters from subscribers anent the paper's stand on the Sacco-Vanzetti case. One, from the librarian of the Boston Y.M.C.A., cancelled a subscription by order of the library committee. Another was from the superintendent of the Exchange Club of Boston who asked that no more issues of The Nation be sent, although the subscription does not expire until January, because "our board of governors are not willing to have our reading table longer disgraced by the paper." A third letter requested a cancellation. Another from the superintendent of schools in McLeansboro, Illinois, wrote "to order The Nation stricken from the list because the youth of our land have enough lures to anarchy already." So four out of five had it but the fifth letter, from a man in Jamaica Plain, Mass., said: "As a former member of the Y.M.C.A. I take this means of protesting against the cancellation reported in your issue. I hope that for every such cancellation you may receive a hundred subscriptions You may have lost a few 'friends' by your intelligent and courageous stand on the Sacco-Vanzetti case, but you have probably gained more." It is the happy and stimulating experience of any journal of opinion that all the people never agree with it most of the time. As Ed. Howe said in the Atchison Globe twenty years ago: "We have been in the newspaper business for twenty-five years and we have found that the only safe thing to do editorially is to attack the man-eating shark."

A girl may be reared in a beautiful and luxurious house and looked after by kindly and well-intentioned parents; yet her mind and emotions may be starving. The push toward growth in her, the special quality of her own personality which, when developed will give her life its stability and character, may be stifling and dying for want of activity. Just as we give our girls balanced meals, adequate clothing and sufficient shelter, we should give them food for the spirit. They cannot live by bread alone. They have a right to an interesting home; and, for that matter, to interesting schools and camps and outside recreations. I once knew well a mother who reared without a single failure a family of six. She made no weary, nagging, heavy-handed martyrdom of motherhood. She did not let her personal life dwindle because of it, or talk dolefully of its sacrifices. It was, to her, serious work, with its difficulties, drudgeries, and problems, but also it was joy, lightness, and adventure. She was by talent and training a musician and she kept up her interest in playing and singing. She read books, studied current events, made new acquaintances and friends. She understood the changing world in which her children were growing up. She knew they faced conditions far different from those in which her own generation was reared. She was one of the rare persons who have the faculty of being as honest, courteous, and as gently considerate to a child as to a grown-up. No young person in her presence was ever made to feel a sense of inferiority for being young. She was gravely respectful to childish ideas and enterprises. The home was filled with a 'number of things.' There was an unending supply of books, a piano to play, paints and modeling clay were available, a big gray rock out-of-doors was an open-air theatre. A work-bench and tool-chest appealed to boys and girls with a mechanical turn of mind. A swimming pool, a tennis court, sand piles, and open fields and forests invited to open-air activity. Each child had a right to animal pets and to personal friends. The day included plenty of free time in which each child might follow, without the sense of being watched, a personal hobby or bent." Jane Deeter Rippin, national director Girl Scouts of America, in Children's Magazine.

RULES ONE LAPSE WON'T MAKE WOMAN IMMORAL

The fact that several years ago a young woman was admittedly indiscreet in her relations with a young man does not make her immoral now, Federal Judge Inch, of Brooklyn, ruled yesterday in admitting to citizenship an applicant whom the naturalization officials sought to bar on the ground of alleged immorality.

The young woman in whose case the court found that "indiscreet" and "immoral" were not synonymous terms, was Mrs. Maria Draginsky, twenty-four, of No. 2816 Beverly Road, Brooklyn. Accompanied by her father, Samuel Gaushanok, a naturalized citizen, she appeared before Judge Inch.

Representatives of the Naturalization Bureau opposed her application. Several years ago, in Russia, it developed, she fell in love with a young man. They became intimate, but for some reason did not marry.

Later, she married another man, Dmitri Draginsky, and they had a son, George, now eight. She came to this country in August, 1921. She and her husband had separated. He is living now at No. 550 West 157th Street, and she and her son live with her father.

The father hotly defended his daughter against the charge of the naturalization officials that she was an immoral woman in the eyes of the law.

"My daughter is not immoral," he exclaimed. "Foolish, she was, maybe, but no bureau or court can make her immoral by edict for an indiscreet surrender."

"I agree with your father that you were indiscreet," said Judge Inch in a kindly tone, "and I agree with him that you have not been made into an immoral character by that indiscretion. Step up and take the oath of citizenship."

Judge Inch explained later that he had merely acted in accordance with the statute, which requires the applicant to show that he or she has lived a moral life for five years. Mrs. Draginsky's father and her brother-in-law, Raymond H. Papernow, No. 1930 Harrison Avenue, the Bronx, both testified she was living a moral life and the indiscretion in Russia was merely "a girlish slip."

Mrs. Draginsky, who once went by the name of Maria Laties, is connected with the moving picture industry, it was said. Judge Inch gave her permission to take the name of Maria George, which she uses in the movies.

Although it did not come out in court, information concerning her "indiscretion" in Russia is said to have been furnished to the naturalization officials by her husband.

Professor Max Reinhardt, famous impresario, won his two-year tax war with the Berlin city authorities through a decision by the Minister of Education declaring that his German Theatre Company, which maintains several playhouses, serves the highest interests of art and is a public utility and not subject to the amusement tax. Professor Reinhardt had persistently refused to pay the tax, pointing to a Federal Council decision covering his case.

ZIONIST SPEAKERS TO VISIT EVERY COMMUNITY

Dr. David Rebelsky, Zionist worker who is now touring Ontario on behalf of the Keren Hayesod, and Joseph Cohen, K.C., of Montreal, member of the Quebec Legislative Assembly, who is also a member of the Executive Council of the Zionist Organization of Canada, will launch the Keren Hayesod campaign in Quebec Sunday, December 4. Dr. Rebelsky will be in Quebec until Tuesday afternoon, December 6, and will then leave for Moncton, Halifax, Yarmouth and St. John. Dr. Rebelsky was for some time professor of literature and history in the University of Odessa and his articles written for Russian magazines and Jewish journals have also been translated into Hebrew. Dr. Hessein Arnoni, who has toured many countries in the interest of Zionism and who is also a journalist of experience, is now in Winnipeg and will leave shortly for Edmonton, where he will arrive Thursday, December 6, to conduct the Keren Hayesod campaign there. Dr. Arnoni will spend five days in Edmonton and then leave to visit various communities in Northern Ontario. His itinerary will include Fort William, Sudbury, Sault Ste. Marie, North Bay, Amonville, South Porcupine, Timmins, Pembroke and Cochrane. In sending out Dr. David Rebelsky, Dr. Arnoni and Jacob Bellet on behalf of Keren Hayesod, the Zionist Organization of Canada will cover every community in Dominion before the end of January.

For the first time in over eighteen hundred years the ancient Hebrew language appears on the currency circulated in Palestine. On the first of November the Egyptian currency, which had been in circulation in Palestine since the British occupation, was substituted by a Palestine currency based on the English sovereign. The new currency bears its denominations, both on the notes and on the silver coinage, in Hebrew as well as in English and Arabic. The Palestine pound is divided into one thousand mills, and is equal in value to the English pound sterling, which is 2½ per cent. less, or 12 cents less than the Egyptian pound. It is expected that this reduction will result in a proportionate reduction in the cost of living. The fifty mills coin, in silver, bears on the obverse side the symbol of the olive branch, which was used on the ancient Hebrew coins struck by the Maccabeeans. The notes of one hundred, fifty, ten, five and one Palestinian pound, as well as of five hundred mills, bear pictures of the ancient historic places in Palestine, such as the Temple area, the picturesque David's Tower, in the old city of Jerusalem, and the Tomb of Rachel, near Bethlehem.

The coins, which are divided into one, two, five, ten, twenty, fifty and one hundred mills, are known in Hebrew as perutah, ma'an, me-ara-im, hezi shekel and shekel. The last coins which bore Hebrew characters were struck by Bar-Kochba during his ill-fated rebellion. In the last six years the Jewish population has been tripled in Palestine, from 55,000 to over 160,000. Under the influence of the influx of enthusiastic pioneers, great tracts of land have been redeemed, swamps have been drained and colonies, both agricultural and commercial, have been founded. The undertaking of Canadian Zionists to buy the historic tract of land known as the Plain of Sharon is another of the important steps towards upbuilding Palestine. The new Jerusalem, with the Hebrew University rising on Mount Scopus, is introducing new life into the land. The Jordan is being harnessed, through the Rutenberg scheme, to give power and light. The Chalutzim are building roads so that where a few years ago the only mode of travel from one village to another was that used in Biblical days, on donkeys, now it is possible to find good motor roads leading from city to city, from village to village. A new life and a new hope and springing up in the ancient land of Israel.

Three Poles [illegible] Isaac Grunenbaum on the streets of Warsaw and then attacked Mr. Grunenbaum, although severely beaten, is not seriously ill as a result of his assistance. The Polish Government sent a special deputy to him to express its sympathy of the Government and to assure him that everything possible will be done to apprehend the guilty persons.

The motive of the assault has not been ascertained. It is generally believed that it was due to Mr. Gruenbaum's plan to form a bloc of the national minorities in the forthcoming Parliamentary elections, to which the Poles are strenuously opposed. Mr. Gruenbaum declared that the incident will not deter him from proceeding with his plan. The prospects for the formation of such a bloc appear to be very favourable and meetings of the representatives of the minority groups are being held in preparation of the elections.

WITHDRAWAL OF CONCESSIONS POSTPONED

The withdrawal of certain concessions in Poland, which was scheduled for December 31 and against which the Jewish deputies protested as it would deprive many Jewish families of a source of livelihood, has been postponed until June of next year. The decree affected many Jewish tobacco merchants and liquor dealers, whose licenses were to be revoked and the privilege of the monopoly given over to veterans of the late war. The postponement will make it possible for the Jewish dealers to wind up their businesses and look for other occupations.

The Jewish colonization organization of Poland, Tox, recently arranged a national health week in Warsaw, which proved very successful. The society has arranged a number of lectures, issued a large number of books and pamphlets on the prevention and cure of disease, and conducted several summer colonies for children, by which it succeeded in raising the standard of health among the poor children of the towns. The society has recently received a gift of a plot of land at Otvozk for the erection of a sanatorium for consumptive children.

SHEHITAH QUESTION IN PRUSSIAN STATES

The commission appointed by the Thuringian Diet to investigate the matter of Shehitah reported that the slaughter of animals without previously stunning them was cruelty and should not be tolerated. However, since with the Jews this was a religious question, the matter should be referred to the Government, together with the opinion of the Diet.

The agricultural committee of the Prussian Diet decided to reject a bill for the prohibition of Shehitah, which was presented by the anti-Semitic Voelkische Party. The committee, however, is seeking to obtain accurate data regarding the number of animals slaughtered according to the Jewish requirements and the number of Jewish families that demand kosher meat.

The Jewish leaders are taking energetic methods to fight the movement started in various parts of Germany for the prohibition of Shehitah. A large public meeting was recently addressed in Hamburg by Dr. Carlebach and Mr. Arthur Schwerner, in behalf of the Central-Verein, protesting against these attempts.

Mme. Kameneff, sister of Leon Trotsky, who is Soviet promoter of cultural relations between Moscow and Europe, was guest of honour at a public reception given by the Turkish government at Constantinople. Yankel is crazy. His eyes are glazed. His lips are pale. His cheeks a cast, sunken in appearance, and when among people he sways to their movements and to their sounds, stays until the ceremony is over and the last stragglers have disappeared away, then he turns around, clasps his hand, mumbles a few words to himself, and goes home.

To-day, Yankel sits alone in a corner of the shul with his eyes fixed on the ceiling in silent contemplation. Now and then he shakes his head mournfully and his pale lips move. He wears his peltzen hat. His cane is lying across his knees.

The shul is slowly filling up. It's a new shul, a pretty shul. Outside there is a big Magen David of electric lights—little blue and white electric lights—and when they are lit during the holidays they can be seen for a whole block. Tanya Pashl says it is just like Solomon's temple. Inside it is clean and bare and not very artistic. It used to smell new until the people brought the smell of the old shul in with them. It is a new shul with an old smell.

The shul is slowly filling up. There are plenty of children and several old women are sitting in the front row and conversing in husky tones.

Sadie Davis is getting married. Sadie is already thirty years old. (The woman with the earrings says she is thirty-two). She used to be a pretty girl once. When she was twenty-three, her cheeks were pink and full like early roses, and she used to sing. She had a good voice. Old Fetter Moishe, who used to play the fiddle before he got paralysis in his right arm, says her voice always makes him think of the song of a little lame bird he once heard in Russia, the song it sang when it watched all the birds fly away to the warm lands while it flapped its wings in vain. Of course he did not say it in just those words, but that is what he meant. Young men might have kissed Sadie's fresh little cheeks—seven years ago—but Sadie's mother is a good mother. That is why Sadie is going to live with her after she is married. That is why Sadie is not going on a honeymoon. That is why Sadie did not go away to Oregon almost seven years ago with the young doctor she met when she was sick in the hospital. He had black hair and white teeth and used to laugh all the time. He liked Sadie very much. He wanted to take Sadie back with him and Sadie wanted to go. She cried a little but she got over it. Oregon is a long way from Sadie's home. How could Sadie's mother let her go? She is a good mother. That is why Sadie is marrying white-faced Noddleman. He is forty-three and has a slight hump and rotten teeth, but Noddleman is a man and Sadie is thirty years old.

Jake stands in the balcony with his fiddle. He is a little hungry. He wishes they would hurry up. There is no piano in the shul so Jake cannot tune his fiddle just so, but what of that? A wedding march is a wedding march. Quit walking around. Shut up! Shhh!

Jake, play your fiddle. It squeaks? Well, don't bother with it now. Who cares how it squeaks? A wedding march is a wedding march.

Nu, here comes the bride's brother and the groom. Look how slow and regular they walk. Every step is measured. Well, didn't they have a rehearsal in the morning! Oi, what a groom! He wears a derby. The bride's brother wears a derby, too. The best man wears a felt hat. The bride's father wears a straw hat. But the groom—hasn't he any front teeth? Ach, so pale. What was he soaked in? Those are pretty dresses the bride's maids are wearing. But look! That one has a hole in her stocking! That's a dirty ribbon the other one has in her hair. Why the ribbon altogether? For heaven's sake, take that baby out! It's been screaming for the past two minutes. Does that woman want us all to go crazy?

Well, so they're under the huppah already. The groom is an orphan. The [illegible] is singing the El Mole Rachamim. Why don't the women in the front row shut up! Say, Sammy, poke that fat woman with the earrings for me. Why does the hazan shut one eye, wrinkle up his nose, and twist his mouth when he sings? He sings nice, but ai, he is so homely! Why does he have to make such funny faces?

The women are crying. What's the matter with Yankel? He's laughing! Oh, Yankel's crazy.

Well, the rabbi has finished the blessings. Thank goodness! I'm hungry, too. I haven't had a bite since lunch. The rabbi is through. The papers are signed. The rabbi knocks the table with his hammer. Sadie is wearing the ring. Ach, the end. It's all over. Sadie is married. She's still a pretty girl for thirty years. Mazel tov! Mazel tov! Sadie's mother is kissing the old women. Everybody is kissing Sadie.

Everybody go downstairs. Everybody downstairs! Ach, there's soup and chicken and mandlach and kugel and tzimis and fruit and nuts. Everybody go downstairs.

What's the matter with Yankel? What is he waiting for? Why is he laughing? Oh, Yankel is crazy.—The Jewish Forum.

FORD HALTS ALL JEWISH ATTACKS

Further evidence that Henry Ford is in good faith in his announced decision to discontinue his attacks on the Jewish race was given yesterday at the twenty-first annual meeting of the American Jewish Committee at the Hotel Astor, when a letter from Mr. Ford to Theodore Fritsch, manager of his European publications, ordering the cessation of all anti-Semitic propaganda in Ford publications, was read.

There have been some complaints in the last few months that, although Mr. Ford had retracted in America and halted the anti-Jewish policy of his paper, the Dearborn Independent, he had allowed his European representatives to continue anti-Semitic activities. A pamphlet, "The International Jew," particularly came in for censure, and Mr. Ford's letter orders that it be abandoned.

Mr. Ford's letter to Mr. Fritsch reads:

"On June 30, 1927, I issued a statement regarding articles concerning the Jews which had appeared in the Dearborn Independent, and some of which had been reprinted in pamphlet form under the title 'The International Jew.' Being satisfied that the publications were unwarranted and that consequently my duty as an honorable man was to retract the charges against the Jews contained in these publications, and to withdraw the publications from circulation, I gave this statement the fullest publicity and took it for granted that my wish in this regard would be scrupulously observed. I am enclosing a correct and authorized copy of that statement. All of the copies of 'The International Jew' in the possession or in the control of the Dearborn Publishing Company have been destroyed at my instance.

"I am informed through the public prints that you are still publishing and circulating these pamphlets in a number of languages, using my name in connection therewith and asserting that the publication rights thereof have not been withdrawn. In order that there may be no misunderstanding as to my wishes in this regard, you are accordingly notified that whatever right you have, or claim to have, to publish 'The International Jew,' anywhere or in any language whatsoever, is hereby revoked and terminated, and that the publication, sale or other distribution of 'The International Jew' and the use of the name of Henry Ford or of the Dearborn Publishing Company in connection therewith, by you or by any person or corporation claiming agency under you or acting by your authority as agent, licensed or otherwise, are hereby forbidden.

"In acknowledging this letter you will kindly inform me of your assurance that you will in all respects acquiesce with this demand."

About sixty-five members of the American-Jewish Committee, organized to combat anti-Semitism, attended the meeting. The president of the committee, Louis Marshall, presided and read the Ford letter. He gave it as his opinion that almost all anti-Jewish propaganda in the United States has been brought to a stop.

Others at the meeting were Felix Warburg and Supreme Court Justice Irving Lehman, of New York; Silas Adler, of Philadelphia; Isaac Ullman, of New Haven, and Judge Horace Stern, of Philadelphia.

Mr. Marshall and the others attending the meeting expressed themselves as feeling that, although Mr. Ford's letter will bring to an end all attacks on Jewry by his European agents, it will do nothing to repair the harm already done. The general sentiment of the meeting was, however, highly optimistic.

CHEIFETZ' SISTER WINS CITIZENSHIP

Sister of a great violinist, daughter of a renowned violin teacher and wife of a music critic, Mrs. Pauline Heifetz Chotzinoff, with fear and trepidation in her heart, became the adopted niece of Uncle Sam when she successfully passed her American citizenship examination at the Naturalization Bureau, No. 113 Nassau Street.

Her brother, Jascha Heifetz, became an American citizen two years ago; while her father, Ruvin Heifetz, and her sister, the former Elsa Heifetz, followed his example a year ago. Mrs. Anna Heifetz, her mother, passed her examination at the same time yesterday; and with the passing of the allotted three months after examination, the whole Heifetz family, who fled to this country in 1917 from Vilna, Russia, will have become full-fledged Americans.

Mrs. Chotzinoff, whose husband, Samuel Chotzinoff, is music critic of "The World," was so excited by the ordeal that she could not remember clearly all the questions and answers; but she thinks she scored a point with the examiner when he asked her what the Mayor's duties were, and she answered, "To see that everything is kept hotsy-totsy." Another question she dimly recollects concerned Secretary Hoover, who, she thought, was "Secretary of Hunger."

Beaming with happiness that she had changed her nationality from Russian to American she displayed a huge 500-page tome on the Constitution of the United States, which she said had been her constant companion for months past. As to its contents, she said, her brow furrowed, "Eet ess verry compleecated reading."

She appeared to have gleaned enough, however, to tell correctly why there is a July 4, who makes the laws, who is head of a State, and to answer emphatically "Yes and No" on the respective questions: "Do you believe in the Republic?" and "Do you believe in anarchy?"

While she celebrated at her home, No. 55 Central Park West, another event was celebrated simultaneously, for her son, Arthur Blair Chotzinoff, is just one year old.

Samuel Hofman, of Chicago, left virtually his entire estate, valued at more than $300,000 to charity.

TINTING OF THE HAIR

WITH INECTO OR SELECTO

Tinting the hair is a work of art and it should be thoroughly understood that the tint is for the hair only and not for the scalp. If the work is done artistically the scalp should not be discolored. It is possible to tint a head of hair without getting a spot on it as large as a head of a pin. It is always wise to prepare the scalp, see there are no abrasions or dandruff, as dandruff indicates an excessive amount of acid in the system. If the scalp is not in a healthy condition it should be treated before the hair is tinted by some person who thoroughly understands the cause.

Pember has studied the human scalp and system and the cause of these conditions for 40 years, and can eliminate 98% of the trouble.

NORTHERN ONTARIO CANADA

Northern Ontario, now open for settlement at fifty cents per acre, contains millions of acres of the finest agricultural land in the world. Its resources in lumber, minerals, water, power, fish, game and scenery are immense. The land calls for men to cultivate it, and in return will give health, comfort and prosperity.

What settlers say of the soil, climate, farming and forest life, is told in a most attractive booklet issued under the direction of the Honourable John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario. Full instructions in regards to acquiring a title to these rich agricultural lands are also given.
